Old Cornwall 1928, page 8 has the following quote from a Mr. Pascoe who said he saw the reel danced in a farm house kitchen circa 1860, "But the best time of all was when Mester Tervenen tooked down he's ol' fiddle from the shilf an' 'way we all scampered in a dree-handed reel, singin so well es dancin' to the music, though the words es fullish." Mr. Pascoe's native tongue was obviously Dialect and not English so it is hard to believe that this song with 'fullish' words was sung good standard English.
